

MAGNOLIA MANOR

Edition 1

“SELLERS WAS NAMED FOR JOHN C. SELLERS, WHO LIVES THERE, AND OPERATES THE ADJOINING LANDS AS A FARM.” WW. SELLERS

HISTORY OF THE MAGNOLIA MANOR

The Sellers-- Immigrated to the United States (Tarboro, N. C.) circa 1750. They were of Scotch, Irish and English descent. William Sellers, the head of the family, settled in Columbus or Brunswick County, N. C., on what was called the "Seven Creeks." He raised six sons: Elisha, Joel, Matthew, Henry, Sion, and Benjamin. As an adult, Benjamin Sellers married a Miss Bryant, by whom he had five children (including Jordan Sellers who was the eldest, and the only child to survive into adulthood). Jordan Sellers was born February 16, 1763 and died September 9th, 1838 at the age of seventy-five years, in Marion County. Jordan Sellers had several children to include William W. Sellers who lived and died in Marion County. At the age of 84, WW. Sellers wrote A History of Marion County, South Carolina, from Its Earliest Times to the Present, 1901 as his legacy. In his account, William W. Sellers writes that the town of Sellers was established as an important shipping point for the railroad and was named after his son, John C. Sellers, who owned and operated a farm in the town. It is believed that the Magnolia Manor was the retirement home of John C. Sellers. The headstone for Martha Bathea Sellers (wife of William W. Sellers and mother to John C. Sellers) is located on the property. The beautiful Victorian farmhouse, circa 1890, boasts original hardwood floors, plaster walls, and the unique craftsmanship of the era.
